

Fraud Prevention Policy and Procedure

Purpose

1. This Policy provides the Australian International Institute of Higher Education ('the Institute') with a framework and guidance to prevent fraud and corrupt conduct by developing, implementing, and regularly reviewing prevention and detection strategies. This Policy does not address all possible situations that may arise within the wide range of activities carried out by and through the Institute but provides a process that can be applied in most situations.

Scope

2. This Policy applies to all stakeholders of the Institute including:
 - a) all staff of the Institute whether full-time, part-time, casual or contract
 - b) all members of the Institute's governing bodies as outlined in the Governance Framework
 - c) individuals engaged in providing services to or receiving services from the Institute, such as students, contractors or consultants
 - d) conduct that is included within the scope of the definitions in this Policy (see examples in Appendix One).
3. This Policy does not include breaches of academic integrity, which are managed under the provisions of the Staff and Student Academic Integrity policies and procedures, respectively.

Definitions

4. For the purposes of this Policy:
 - a) Corrupt conduct is defined as deliberate dishonesty relating to, or distortion of, the Institute's processes or procedures, including the acceptance of donations or bribes, to obtain advantage for an individual or group of individuals. This could include:
 - i. the improper use of knowledge, power or position for personal gain or the advantage of others
 - ii. acting dishonestly or unfairly or breaching trust.
 - b) Fraud is defined as dishonest, irregular or illegal acts, characterised by a deliberate intent at concealment or false representation, resulting in the diversion of resources, whether for personal gain for the benefit of an individual or a group of individuals with consequent loss to the Institute. Resources may include money, physical assets, equipment or intellectual property.

Policy

Policy statement

5. The Institute aims to develop and maintain a culture of honesty and integrity within the organisation, and to put in place processes that ensure effective prevention, detection and management of fraud and corrupt conduct. The Institute adopts a zero-tolerance approach to fraud and corrupt conduct in all Institute activities. This approach is consistent with the Staff

Code of Conduct, Student Code of Conduct and the law.

Principles

6. This Policy is designed to:
- a) prevent and detect corruption across all areas of the Institute's operations, including those of its related entities
 - b) ensure that management and governing bodies are aware of their responsibilities for establishing controls and procedures for the prevention and detection of fraud and corrupt conduct
 - c) ensure that all stakeholders are aware of the Institute's expectation that they will refrain from corrupt conduct, fraudulent activities and maladministration
 - d) encourage all stakeholders to report matters that they suspect may concern corrupt conduct
 - e) provide assurances to all stakeholders and the wider community that any suspected corrupt conduct will be fully investigated, and sanctions imposed
 - f) ensure that all reports of fraud and corrupt conduct are treated with confidentiality and care.

Procedure

Possible areas of potential fraud and corruption

7. Fraud and corrupt conduct can potentially occur in any area of the Institute's operations. Some examples of conduct that could represent fraud, corrupt conduct or serious and substantial waste of the Institute's funds are included in Appendix One.

Prevention strategies

- 8. The Institute ensures a sound and sustainable ethical culture through a process of awareness training and the development of robust policies, procedures and monitoring and auditing processes.
- 9. Senior staff and members of governing bodies are expected to model ethical conduct at all times and to demonstrate a high level of commitment to controlling the risk of fraud and corrupt conduct within the Institute.
- 10. All Institute stakeholders will have a general awareness of fraud and corrupt conduct and understand how any such activity should be managed if it is detected or suspected.

Detection strategies

11. The Institute implements the following detection strategies:
- a) regular internal and external audits as outlined in the AIiHE Governance Framework
 - b) identification and assessment of early warning signs to detect fraud by training key personnel to recognise 'red flags' and respond appropriately

 - i. data analysis activities of invoice numbers and bank account numbers to detect patterns and relationships that might highlight fraud, irregular behaviour or inconsistencies as evidence of duplicate payments
 - ii. reviews of financial statements to detect fraud through a comparison of the Institute's budget reports, expenditure against appropriate benchmarks or trends in bad or doubtful debts

- iii. post-transaction reviews to detect fraud by focussing on authorisations, adherence to guidelines on expenditure receipting and missing documentation, to detect altered or missing documents or falsified or altered authorisations

Reporting of suspected instances

12. All stakeholders are encouraged to report any suspected fraud, corruption or mismanagement as soon as possible as follows:

14. All staff are expected to operate in good faith in respect of any allegations made and will be required to cooperate with any investigation.
15. On receiving any report of fraud or corruption the CEO, alternative delegate or Chair of the relevant governing body, must:
 - a) communicate any reports that have the potential to impact the operations or reputation of the Institute to the Chair of the Audit and Risk Committee
 - b) submit the report to the Board of Directors via the Governing Council where appropriate.
